Hiring Manager
Solve Communications
South Melbourne, VIC

Dear Hiring Manager,

The Help Desk Assistant role at Solve Communications stood out immediately because it explicitly welcomes candidates still completing their IT studies, rather than asking for years of experience an entry-level applicant wouldn't have. That, combined with Solve Communications' 40+ years as a Telstra Enterprise Partner, made this look like a place to build a real career rather than just take a first step. Hiring several Helpdesk Assistants at once also tells me this is a team that's genuinely growing, not backfilling a single seat.

Over the past two years at Ozb Group, I provided technical support and troubleshooting guidance to customers, enhancing their experience with products. I processed customer product returns and service requests in compliance with store policies, building the attention to detail and process discipline that order processing and administration call for. I also trained new employees on technical processes and customer service best practices, so I'm used to learning new systems quickly and then helping others learn them too. Throughout, I worked a rotating roster including weekend shifts, so the hours for this role aren't a concern.

I haven't used Salesforce or worked in telco specifically, but I learn tools fast. I picked up Ozb Group's systems and policies well enough to train other staff within months of starting. From day one, I'd lead with the same calm, clear communication I used with customers at Ozb Group, while spending my first weeks getting properly fluent in Salesforce and the team's order workflow before trying to move quickly.

I've completed all coursework and final exams for a Bachelor of Cybersecurity at Melbourne Institute of Technology, with degree conferral expected July 2026, and I'm available for full-time work immediately. The coursework has also given me a working grasp of networking and basic security concepts, which should help me pick up the technical side of telco support faster than a candidate with no IT background. I hold full working rights in Australia on a Partner Visa, so no employer sponsorship is required.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application further.

Kind regards,

Pratik Dhami
